

This Board of Education has failed so completely at its job that we now face a special election to recall several of its members.

Families for San Francisco considers five principles in evaluating each removal:

- 1 - Performance: failure to perform the duties of the office to a minimum standard.
- 2 - Process: undemocratic processes while in office; blatant disregard of rules and procedures.
- 3 - Power: abuse of power and position to harass or diminish the voice of constituents.
- 4 - Interest: placing personal interest over the interests of the public and/or the institution that is overseen.
- 5- Conduct: pattern of conduct that disrupts the proper functioning of the position, office, or agency.

Alison Collins has failed to perform to the minimum standards for a Board of Education commissioner. Collins was a champion for the school renaming project instead of fighting to reopen schools during the pandemic. She has abused her office to harass and diminish constituents on multiple occasions. She demonstrated extreme bias against the AAPI community and failed to apologize. When multiple political figures called on her to resign, she responded by suing the school district and her colleagues.

Families for San Francisco recommends a vote to recall Commissioner Alison Collins.
